ALMA MATER

Marshall gracious Alma Mater
We thy name revere;
May each noble son and daughter
Cherish thine honor dear.
May thy lamp be ever bright,
Guiding us to truth and light;
As a beacon o'er dark water
This is for thee our prayer.
May the years be kind to Marshall
May she grow in fame;
May her children fail her never,
True to her beacon flame.
May her spirit brave and strong
Honor right and conquer wrong;
This the burden of our song,
Ever her truth proclaim.

UNIVERSITY

Our home . . . Marshall University. Primarily an institution dedicated to learning, a university is also a shelter to those who seek to become part of its community. From our first hesitant days as freshmen to the final proud hour when we leave here as graduates, this campus is the nucleus around which our lives revolve. The hours we spend in study, the friends we make, the activities in which we participate, the discoveries made about the world and ourselves all serve to form the invisible walls which surround us. The university is really only a continuation of the world outside it, but it is also a unique place where students of different backgrounds share common experiences and are enriched as a result of their years here. When we leave this University, our home, the memories we carry with us will follow us as surely as yesterday.

Behind the heavy doors of the James Morrow Library is a wealth of knowledge, an absorbing novel, the busy Parthenon office, and quiet.

The study of the past, the quest for tomorrow, and the humanities meet in the Science Building . . . the home of the departments of History, Sciences, and Speech.

Laidley Hall, oldest of the three women's dorms, is noted for its well-furnished and tastefully decorated lounges.

Lucy Prichard Hall is a pleasant home for many Marshall women.

The New Women's Residence Hall is the last word in modern dormitory living, as attested by the numerous lounges and kitchenettes.

White frame Main Annex has served Marshall and her students well. But time has taken its toll and Main Annex will soon close her doors.

Excited voices, laughing, easy conversation, a cup of coffee... this is the Shawkey Student Union. Here is the home of the Chief Justice, Student Government, and happy students.

Hodges Hall, Laidley's twin, is a men's dormitory.

This is the kitchen of the campus, the Cafeteria. Three times each day it is invaded by hungry students and faculty members.

The Residence Hall for Men presently includes four floors of living quarters and a cafeteria. Future plans call for four more floors.

Old Main is the symbol of Marshall University. In years past, thousands of eager students have studied here. In the future, thousands of students will benefit from her facilities.

This is Northcott Hall with her clicking typewriters and modern office machinery. This is the training ground for those who enter the fast-moving business world.

Gullickson Hall, home of the Departments of Military Science and Physical Education and the Student Health Center, offers everything from a rifle range to a heated pool.

The sound of a trumpet; the entire band; the lone voice of a practicing student; the vibrancy of a choir . . . surely this is the Music Building.

Surrounded by tennis courts and overlooking the intramural field, the Women's Physical Education Building plays an important role in the all-important physical fitness program.

ACTIVITIES

What does a student at Marshall do besides go to class, study, sleep, and eat? . . . The answer . . . plenty! There are the highlights of the social season, such as Homecoming, Parents Weekend, and the formals, and a host of other occasions where he can find outlets for his leisure time. To some it might be joining the University Theatre, or attending the fine Artists Series programs. For others there are pep rallies and hootenannies and, of course, the weekly TGIF celebration. The Greeks are host to a number of functions during the year, including dances and house parties. Students can always while away pleasant hours, talking with friends in the Student Union, to commemorate the end of another long day.

Campus Events

Military . . . Marshall's ROTC sponsored a tea for the faculty.

Christian Center . . . A successful "Pancake Festival" was served in the Campus Christian Center.

Greeks . . . Lambda Chi Alpha demanded food as ransom for the sorority housemothers they kid-napped.

The turning point for the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity as they obtained their national charter.

Lambda Chi Alpha and Sigma Sigma Sigma organizations prepare themselves for the "Bowl Out Cancer" Drive.

The "cigar box" sponsored by the Robe has given many a student the ready cash needed.

Class Registration . . .

Happiness is completing class registration without having to stand in long lines. Happiness is getting into a class before it closes. Happiness is registering without the confusion as to what to do next. Happiness is knowing a schedule doesn't have to be changed after the semester starts. Happiness is discovering that the apparent schedule error wasn't really an error at all.

Checking for errors is an important part of the registration process.

This man seems to be having more than average problems . . . everybody else has gone home.

. . . During and Following

These students have almost completed the trying ordeal of registration.

There are always a great number of students who are not satisfied with the classes they scheduled and so registration is followed with the even more hectic schedule changes.

The Story of Elections . . .

Friendly conversations begin the hectic election times for the hopeful candidates.

The story of elections is a long and complicated one, whether speaking of the candidates or the prospective voters.

In years passed, Marshall has retained the reputation of a "friendly campus". However, during elections "friendly" just is not a strong enough word for the atmosphere. A good feeling prevails and seems to be in the air itself.

Although elections are a hectic time, everyone remotely involved enjoys the confusion which results in making new friends whether winner or loser.

An election would be practically impossible without the colorful and interesting signs each candidate spends hours making and posting in key spots on campus.

. . . From Beginning to End

The campaigning is really in full swing now and each candidate trying to secure as many votes as possible.

The voting students file into the Union and do their part to support the candidate of their choice.

When the voting is over, the counting begins for those on the election commission.

Homecoming 1964 . . .

Students had the task of choosing their Homecoming queen from all of these beautiful candidates.

The votes were counted and then President Smith crowned Miss Sandra Rutherford as Marshall University's 1964-65 Homecoming Queen.

Alpha Xi Delta's house decorations captured first place in the Homecoming festivities this year.

All the hard work brought dividends for the brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon as they earned first place in the float competition.

Annual Pike's Peak Activities

The "Mud Hunt" is always a popular event, especially for the audience.

Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity held their annual "fun day" for the sororities once again. They participated in various contests and the one with the highest total score was declared the winner.

Not a very pretty picture, but Melinda Snow won the "Pie Eating Contest".

The most tiring event is the "Tug of War" which always manages to wear everyone out.

SAE's Lion, 'Leo'

Holding the baby lioness at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon house is Mike Mittleman, who played "mama" for the cub.

Stone lions do not make a mascot, so the SAE's obtained a real, live lion.

The lion-hearted Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity purchased "Cleo" to represent the fraternity. Although she was only able to remain for two weeks, she became quite a pet for the brothers.

They planned, when they purchased her, to only keep her until spring and then give her to a zoo or park. They felt that by doing this, everyone would be able to enjoy their gift.

"Cleo" won the hearts of all the brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

"Cleo" gets her nourishment from a baby's bottle.

Greek Activities . . .

Delta Zetas before attending their formal.

Alpha Xi Deltas and their dates gather for some fun with music at an informal.

... Formals and Informals

Jan Harr accepts his trophy for being voted Tri Sigma man at the Sigma Sigma Sigma Winter Formal.

An informal is always fun and the Sigma Kappa informal's smiling guests seem to agree.

The Alpha Chi's appear to be ready for a "heap big time" at their informal!

The "Great Pumpkin" and all the Sigma Kappa's are all dressed and ready to go to another informal.

Delta Zeta's and their dates on their way to an informal social function.

Alpha Sigma Phi's go Hawaiian at one of the informals.

The girls have these cavemen well under control for the Tau Kappa Epsilon "Stoneage".

Costumes were the main attraction at Pi Kappa Alpha's "Bowery Ball".

The Tau Kappa Epsilon "Playboy" house party and costumes galore.

Sigma Tri's revert to their childhood at their "Brat's Ball" informal.

Pi Kappa Alpha's take a coffee break before going to their Christmas formal.

It's off to the forest to visit Robin Hood for the Zeta Beta Taus.

Lambda Chis enjoy their "Backwards Party" informal.

What could be more enjoyable than a beach party in the fraternity house?

At the "Winter Formal" the men of West Virginia Alpha serenaded their dates with fraternity songs.

What's a party unless everyone dresses up and has a good time?

Nobody can deny that these "hillbillies" look authentic in their costumes.

The brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and their dates listen to the music of the Del Vikings at the Riverside informal.

These Sig Eps are really having a blast at the annual "Blue Mountain Blast".

A Time for Study

... A Time for Play

Cultural Calendar 1964-1965 . . .

The National Players in William Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night".

Vocal Ensemble,
Abbey Singers.

I. Solisti Di Zagreb, Chamber Music.

... Convocations ...

A scene from the New York City Opera Company's production, "Die Fledermaus".

Harry James and his new swingin' orchestra.

The Netherlands Chamber Choir with Felix de Nobel as conductor.

. . . Artists

James Metcalf, who presented his travelogue: "Trailing Lewis and Clark to Oregon."

Jules Munshin (Fagin) teaches Christopher Spooner (Oliver) how to "pick a pocket or two" in the smash hit musical "Oliver".

"The Nutcracker" was presented by the National Ballet of Canada.

Series . . .

Featured dancers in "Caledonia" presented by the Scottish singers and dancers.

A program entitled "Ragtime Revisited" starring Max Morath.

The international star of the music world, Van Cliburn, visited Marshall.

. . . Community

Robert McKeown presented his travelogue: "Canada to the Students".

Julius Rudel conducted the New York City Opera Company production of "Die Fledermaus."

Royal Welsh Male Choir directed by John Samuel, presented "An Evening In Wales".

Forums . . .

A jazz program by the Bernard Peiffer Jazz Trio.

Ancient hieroglyphic inscriptions on poolside rocks at the Virgin Island National Park were shown in James Metcalf's film, "Wings to Wonderland: America's National Parks".

Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanias thrilled the audience in the production here.

Scenes From Life . . .

It's only a short walk from the Residence Hall for Women to classes in Science Hall, Gullickson Hall, Music Building, and Old Main.

. . . In the Residence Hall for Women

The newest living quarters for Marshall University coeds were opened in September 1964. The six-floor Residence Hall for Women houses 250. Features of the building include kitchenettes and study lounges on each floor, an intercom system from the main desk to each room, and, in general, beautiful surroundings.

University Theatre

"Life With Father" cast rehearses one of the scenes in a practice session.

The renovation of Old Main Auditorium involved labor, but the results were beautiful.

Lynn Slavin and John Wheeler starred in the production of "Life With Father".

The Campus on a Snowy Night

Students are very proud of their campus at Marshall University.

Although the weather is cold, the freshly fallen snow is beautiful.

This solemn scene makes all pause in thought.

Mother's Day Sing Winners

Sigma Alpha Epsilon walked away with the winner's trophy in the fraternity division with their interpretation of "The Drummer and the Cook."

Sorority honors went to Sigma Kappa as they captured the votes with their arrangement of "Claire de Lune."

Some 2,250 parents and students attended the 15th annual Mother's Day Sing in May 1964. Top honors in the sing competition went to Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and Sigma Alpha sorority. Second places were won by the Delta Zeta sisters and the Sigma Phi Epsilon brothers. Awards and honors for scholastic achievement were also presented at the outdoor event. The Sing was part of Parents' Weekend.

Graduation Days

The dignitaries present for Marshall University's commencement exercises were: (L-R) Dr. Andrew R. Bird Jr., Dr. John D. Millett, Dr. Alfred D. Callihan, and Dr. Alfred R. Neumann. All received honorary doctorate degrees from Dr. Stewart H. Smith (center).

Challenging decisions have beset the student throughout his college career, but completing of graduation requirements, and launching into life for himself, place a heavier burden on the student.

Commencement is not an end . . . it is a beginning. It is a moment that must be met with maturity.

Students and their guests gather for the graduation events on the University campus.

Student Government Elections . . .

Last minute touches are always necessary to make each sign something special and different.

Risks are involved, but the signs must be posted in noticeable places for the voters to see.

. . . Signs Go Up on Campus

The days before the campaigns start are filled with the sounds of thudding hammers.

The details of an election—like how to attach the wire to a poster—must be taken care of before the campaign can proceed.

Future Plans for Marshall

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY
ADDITION - LIBRARY BUILDING

Architect's drawing for the library building addition. A $1.5 million expansion of the present library will provide more study and book storage space.

MARSHALL UNIVERSITY
CLASSROOM AND OFFICE BUILDINGS

Marshall University's classroom and office building plans. This eight-story building will be located at the corner of Third Avenue and 16th Street. A music building will adjoin the main unit. Construction of the buildings is expected to start later this year.

"Marco", Marshall's new mascot, made his first appearance at the final "Big Green" basketball game of the season. Under the suit is Charles Evans, Huntington senior.

The student government was responsible for the purchasing of "Marco". The sole purpose of our mascot is to boost school spirit and support on the part of the students.

Roving Photographer . . .

The Chief Justice had three staff photographers this year who went everywhere with their cameras. These boys roamed the campus and snapped pictures here and there. The next few pages are examples of their work.

... Campus Scenes

The annual Kappa Alpha Order's Old South Weekend met with opposition in 1964. About 25 members of the Civic Interest Progressives, a student civil rights group, marched in protest against official sanction of the event and use of the Confederate flag in a campus surrender ceremony. Kappa Alpha men reaffirmed their loyalty to the American flag and all that it stands for. The ceremony proceeded without incident. Miss Patsy Mitchell, New Town freshman, was chosen KA Rose.

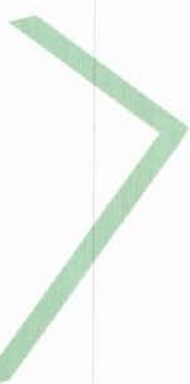

FEATURES

In every community there are certain people who, by their contributions to, or efforts for the group, are recognized as outstanding. The Marshall campus is no exception. Every year we choose queens, cheer for favorite athletes, elect sponsors, award scholarships . . . Some students are chosen for Who's Who, others honored for leadership abilities. Every student feels at least a little challenged to exert himself more when he is aware of the possible recognition for his efforts, and those who do succeed in what they set out to do, whether honored or not, at least gain a certain satisfaction in knowing of their accomplishments. Competition is one of the basic tenets by which we live, and it keeps the academic community on its toes while drawing favorable attention to it from the outside.

The Honored Few . . .

The 1965 edition of Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges will include 34 Marshall University students.

The students were selected by the Student Government's Who's Who Commission on the basis of scholarship and leadership activities. Students were nominated for the honor by department heads and presidents of student organizations.

Miss C. J. and her attendants were chosen by WSAZ newsmen from the formal portraits of ten finalists and crowned at the half-time ceremonies of the Marshall-Bowling Green basketball game.

ORGANIZATIONS

In any university, organizations of one type or another are found. From our earliest experiences, we find ourselves confronted with an almost overwhelming choice of movements and groups. Since college students are adults, there is no lack of variety and sophistication to be found in campus organizations. Ranging from the fraternities and sororities, which are a definite social asset to any college, to political groups, and to the different church affiliated and curriculum oriented honoraries and clubs, every student is offered something in his range of interests. They may aid him in his chosen profession or merely serve as an outlet for his creative impulses, but the various campus organizations also act as an integrating force for the college community as a whole.

Alpha Chi Omega

The sisters of Alpha Chi Omega, motivated by the fact that they placed first in scholarship among the sororities during the spring semester of 1964, completed a successful rush retreat and season by taking 24 new sisters.

Alpha Chis take part in many of Marshall's campus activities. They include Honors, Fagus, Who's Who, ROTC Sponsorship, scholastic honoraries, University Theatre, government, and choir.

The sisters of Gamma Omicron also participated in philanthropic projects, open houses, faculty teas, and alumni projects.

They maintained their tradition of social events this year by having the Indian Pow Wow dance, Red Carnation Ball, Spring Informal, Golden Lyre Ball, and Founder's Day Dinner.

Kay Cramer and Anne Sheetz entertain a patient while carrying out a philanthropic project.

This September the Alpha Sigs joyfully moved into their new chapter suite. Along with the excitement of our new home came fall rush, and our new pledge class. We are certainly proud of our new pledges who have brought recognition to our chapter. We are represented in honoraries, on the Parthenon, Chief Justice, and many more.

Among a number of projects which we work on during the year, is our annual philanthropic project. This year we had a Christmas party for a class of mentally retarded children at Oley Elementary School. Some of our social activities throughout the year included a Hayride, Christmas party, and our Alpha Sig Spring week-end.

Alpha Sigma Alpha's traveling secretary, Judy Matthews, is honored at a buffet dinner in the chapter suite.

New pledges are treated with a pizza party. Seated: Maureen Cooksey, Patricia Dean, Linda Cornett, Standing: Marilyn Vorholt, Ellen West, Mrs. J. R. Dial.

Alpha Xi Delta

Alpha Xi Delta's fine scholastic standing on Marshall's campus is evidenced by her retiring the Panhellenic scholarship trophy after having maintained high scholarship for three consecutive years. In addition to her academic achievements, Alpha Xi Delta worked hard in preparing for homecoming and was rewarded by receiving first place in House Decoration Competition. Sandy Rutherford was crowned as the new Miss Marshall and Sherry Baker, a pledge of Alpha Xi, was chosen Freshman Queen. Five "fuzzies" were chosen as fraternity queens.

The members of this chapter have maintained their high ideals of scholarship, friendship, and service by active participation in various campus organizations.

The social activities were numerous and varied. The Alpha Xi's are sad to leave such a busy and exciting year, yet at the same time looking forward to just as successful a new year.

Alpha Xi's were proud of their two Homecoming Queens, Sherry Baker (L) and Sandy Rutherford.

Delta Zeta

The Delta Zeta girls were off to a booming start this year. By accumulating nine trophies from the previous semester, the Delta Zetas were ready to take over the campus. Pledging 20 sharp girls was their first accomplishment.

Spirits boomed high among the DZ's for most of the girls were in all fields of campus activities. DZ's proudly announced having both frosh and varsity cheerleaders, majorettes, senators, ROTC sponsors, fraternity sweethearts, Fagus members, choir, junior class queen, members in honorary groups, plus even more in various campus clubs. DZ's are also busy in national and area philanthropic projects.

On campus you can always tell a DZ girl . . . smile, pep, and pink dresses.

Delta Zetas entertain their guests with an open house and a tea.

As proud winners of the annual Greek Week activities, the DZ's accept the trophy.

Sigma Kappa

After a summer of planning and preparation, the Sigma Kappas returned to their house for a week-long pre-school sorority clinic. Following a highly successful rush season, they had a victorious homecoming by placing in the house decorations and having one of their sisters chosen as sophomore queen. Sigma Kappas are represented in Fagus, Who's Who, cheerleaders, majorettes, Student Senate, and the Parthenon staff.

Projects included visits to the Foster Memorial Home and the Huntington State Hospital. Some of their social activities have included two informals, formals, the Sigma Kappa weekend, a Hobo Dinner, and a serenade.

They placed first in Pike's Peak, Greek Week Olympics, and Mother's Day Sing. At the end of a very eventful year their hopes are high for the year to come.

Tired but happy Sigma Kappas accept the first place trophy for their efforts in Pike's Peak from Jim Hamilton.

The results of a successful rush season are obvious, and the Sigma Kappa's are very proud of their new pledges.

Sigma Sigma Sigma

Members of Sigma Sigma Sigma fill their college life with many activities within their own organization as well as on campus. They are active in Student Government, various honoraries, and other student organizations. Kathy Kelly served as Panhellenic President. Their sisters reigned as Sig Ep Snowball Queen and Pike's Peak Queen. Again, they were winners of the Sig Ep Derby Day. Tri Sigmas participated in the United Fund Drive. They gave strong support to their own national project, the Robbie Page Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. Social affairs included formals, informals, Founder's Day, and a Mardi Gras weekend. The taking in of so many wonderful new sisters made it a perfect year for the Sigma Sigma Sigma.

Tri Sigma officers lead the sorority in its activities. L-R: Vicky Dobbs, Judy Bowen, Patty Ginger, Evy Meek, Jane Holswade.

Alpha Sigma Phi

This has been a landmark year in the history of Beta Delta Chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi. It was only three years ago that three men—one active and two pledges—began the monumental task of rebuilding one of Marshall's oddest social fraternities. Their fondest dream was realized last September when the Chapter moved into its own house. The house is one of the finest of the campus.

Events of the year have been numerous and have included dances, parties, intramural sports, and basketball tournaments with the Morris Harvey Chapter.

Now, as we regretfully acknowledge the end of this year, we also look forward to an even better new year.

The Alpha Sigma Phi's conducted a silent walk around campus as an example of their fraternal spirit.

Kappa Alpha Order

The men of the brotherhood of Kappa Alpha strive ever to uphold the Christian ideals and southern heritage to which General Robert E. Lee, the Order's spiritual founder, so dedicated his life. Tradition is an integral part of a KA's existence.

Kappa Alpha is involved in many worthwhile activities throughout the academic cycle. Donations are made annually to the Cammack Children's Center. Christmas projects for the needy are established facets of the Order's community life. This year the KA's sold candy for their money-making project.

Co-ordinated with civic work, the social life of Kappa Alpha is both a hectic and an enjoyable phase of life. Convivium and Old South Weekend are the two formal dates of the year which is also studded with rush parties and informals.

"Old South" Weekend festivities included the announcing of Patsy Mitchell as KA Rose.

A "home away from home" is the large and newly furnished Kappa Alpha house. Many wonderful hours are passed here and brotherhood reigns high.

Lambda Chi Alpha

The men of Lambda Chi Alpha look back on the spring term of 1964 with considered pride. Proving that true brotherhood has no barriers, the men adopted a German orphan.

The brothers captured third place in the Mother's Day Sing. The fall semester found the brothers busy building the Queen's float for Homecoming. Later the chapter participated in several philanthropic projects.

This has been a year of active social functions combined with civic responsibility and community assistance. The men of Lambda Chi Alpha are eagerly anticipating the upcoming year and its challenges and satisfactions.

Brothers prepare for Mother's Day Sing on the beautiful lawn of the Lambda Chi house.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Pi Kappa Alpha, noted for spiritual and enthusiastic brothers, can look back once more at a successful year in campus competition and service to community.

The Pikes, a community conscience fraternity, placed second nationally in the National Community Service Award.

A few of Pi Kappa Alpha's campus victories are: first place in intramurals, first place in I.F.C. pledge basketball tournament, and second place in the Homecoming float competition.

The fourth annual "Pikes Peak" sorority competition sponsored by the fraternity, was won for a third time by Sigma Kappa.

Brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha revert to earlier days with their annual "Cannibal Hop" Informal.

The "Bowery Ball" is another of the many and varied social functions enjoyed by the Pikes.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon

West Virginia Alpha of Sigma Alpha Epsilon national fraternity again this year have done themselves proud. The active brothers of 1401 Fifth Avenue pledged 48 men in the fall of 1964.

Activities and functions participated in include the Muscular Dystrophy Drive, Beach Party, Christmas Caroling and party for the Cammack children, collection of food for families at Thanksgiving, host to Leo the lioness, winning the 1964 Mother's Day Sing, and winning the overall scholarship for the 1963-1964 school.

The SAE's, nationally, have been noted the number one fraternity for 30 of the last 40 years.

Brotherhood reigns at the annual SAE retreat.

Chapter members admire the shine of the newly polished trophies . . . a project of the fall pledge class.

Sig Eps had another excellent year in 1964. Activities such as the Queen of Hearts Formal, Snow Princess Formal, Deep Purple, and the Blue Mountain Blast highlighted the social calendar. Sigma Phi Epsilon won the annual Greek Week Games and finished second in the intramural standings.

Brothers greeted coeds at their dorms at the beginning of school to carry their luggage. the Christmas party for orphans was a great success. Sig Eps also helped in canvassing the area for such organizations as the Heart Fund and the March of Dimes.

Homecoming honors went to SPE as they finished first in the float competition. A second place was awarded to the Sig Eps in the Mother's Day Sing.

The house with the red door once again proved itself a home away from home for the brothers of Sigma Phi Epsilon.

The brothers and pledges enjoy themselves at the big brother-little brother party.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

The Tekes fall semester pledge class was 30 strong. An official TKE car carts the Tekes to the football games. A large bell warns everyone of the car's arrival.

Social activities included an informal, "Stone Age Stumble," where animal skin costumes were in order, and the "Winter Formal".

The TKE's sold candy to raise money for house improvements and participated in the Muscular Dystrophy drive for their annual projects.

Tau Kappa Epsilon has been well represented in many campus activities this year and are looking forward to the year upcoming.

The brothers of TKE are always noticed at football games with their "private car".

Zeta Beta Tau

With an increase in numbers, the men of Beta Tau insured the fruition of their labors of the previous two years by assuring their receipt of a national charter and the assumption of active status in the roles of Zeta Beta Tau.

Participation in campus and community activities continued at an accelerated rate as brothers entered their first float in the Homecoming competition; actively participated in community service projects; were socially prominent, having had several informals as well as two formal dances; competed in the traditional Mothers Day Sing; and again delighted the palates of many with their annual presentation of the Ess 'n Fress delicatessen dinner.

The brotherhood can review the past year as one of great accomplishment which corresponds to the high standards set for the men by their local and national predecessors.

The ZBT's intramural basketball team is only one of the activities that strengthens brotherhood.

Those care-free days of the "Roaring Twenties" will never die, especially with informals like this Zeta Beta Tau one.

Cavaliers

This year, members of the Cavaliers have continued to enjoy the full benefits of belonging to Marshall University's only Independent Fraternity. The social calendar, which was as full as University regulations permit, was highlighted by such outstanding functions as the "Sweetheart Ball", "Roman Riot", and "Western Hoedown".

Yet the Cavaliers feel that the importance of these outstanding social events was overshadowed by the spontaneous activities of the group. The feeling of brotherhood has never been stronger. The men of Cavaliers hold this year in fond memory; yet they know the promises the future holds.

The "Roman Riot" informal hosted a number of original costumes.

Cavaliers replace their old crest with the new in the Student Union.

Panhellenic Council

Marshall University Panhellenic is an organization composed of two representatives and the president from each of the six Greek national sororities on campus. The purpose of the group is to foster good relationships among the sororities and coordinate the individual efforts of the various organizations. Through the Council, rush activities and rules are set up for regulation of rushing procedures. The activities in which Panhellenic participate are Greek Week and Mothers' Day Sing. This year the sororities collected money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association as one of their service projects. Scholarship is one of the aims of sororities and each year Panhellenic awards a scholarship trophy to the sorority with the highest over-all academic average.

Student Government . . .

President Dick Cottrill and Vice-President Fred Reeder pause during an interview with Parthenon Editor, Kay Sage.

The Student Government is the students' own governing unit. It is composed of three divisions—the Student Senate, the Student Court, and the Executive Branch. During the greatest part of the year, the Student Government handles its business soberly and dutifully. But each spring at the time of elections, the Student Government finds itself in the middle of one of the most interesting and colorful spectacles which hits the campus in the course of the year. For a week the campus is covered with posters. All varieties of campaign material circulate. And then the winners settle down for another year of work.

Numerous conversations and comparisons are added together in reaching the final draft in the planning of a yearbook. Mary Louise Alleveto, Organizations; Shirley Layne, Editor-in-Chief and Nancy Hickman, Classes and Administration, seem to be enjoying this session of planning the Chief Justice.

A yearbook is only as good as its pictures and this year we were fortunate in having three able student photographers: Al Butto, Mike Smith, and Bob Rogers, who took our pictures for us.

Happy and Sad Moments on "CJ."

The selection of a theme for a new book is one of the biggest jobs of the year. Then with pictures to be scheduled, copy to be written, and deadlines to be met, the school year rushes by in a whirl of duties for staff members. But these are "labors of love" and the rewards come when the Chief Justice arrives.

As in all undertakings of any size and merit whatsoever, the Chief Justice experienced many sad moments as a result of financial difficulties. John Stevens, Business Manager; Shirley Layne, Editor-in-Chief; and Bob Rogers, Managing Editor; appear to have met one of those problems here.

After all the heartaches and hard work, John, Shirley, and Bob are still smiling and it is quite evident that they are proud of their 1965 Chief Justice.

The "Big Green" Band

Marshall University's band took on a completely different atmosphere this year under the direction of Howard Bell.

The students were proud of the performances of the band, patterned after many of the larger collegiate marching bands.

Varsity football games were much more exciting and entertaining due to the efforts of the "Big Green" Marching Band. As sons of Marshall, they did themselves proud.

The Marshall University Symphonic Band, 1965. The directors of the symphonic band are Howard Bell, Thomas O'Connell, Eddie Bass. The officers are Larry Popp, Bill Bradley, Martha Fike.

Editorial work is completed in the Newsroom.

Typewriters are clicking. Telephones are ringing and the room is a beehive of activity. The Parthenon, Marshall's student newspaper, is going to press.

The Parthenon records the pulse of campus activities. No matter where it is or what it is, whether it is an athletic event, a social event, an account of class work, or an editorial, it can be found in the Parthenon.

Laidley Hall

Laidley Hall, oldest of the women's dorms, stands on a tree-shaded corner of the campus. A home away from home for generations of students, this dormitory is particularly noted for its spacious rooms and its tastefully appointed parlors.

The girls of Laidley participate in all phases of campus life, both academic and social. Most evenings must be spent in the pursuit of studies, but the girls periodically break the monotony by staging a dance.

The friendly occupants of Laidley Hall are always ready to welcome visitors to their "substitute home".

Lucy Prichard Hall

Prichard Hall was named for Lucy E. Prichard, former professor of Classical Languages at Marshall. The four-story red brick building is a landmark of the Marshall campus. Its central location puts all parts of the campus within easy reach.

Prichard is a relatively new dormitory, but the girls who have lived there have distinguished themselves on campus. They can be found working actively in academic circles, sororities, beauty contests, and student government.

Counselors and officers of Prichard are: Row 1: Charmain Simons, Claire Young, Rose Gorchick, Judy Iler, Jackie Moss. Row 2: Jeanine Jordon, Arlene Roush, Karen Mattox, Diane Spurlock, Nancy Donohew, Susan Donnally.

Residents of Lucy Prichard Hall are proud of their home and they strive to ever keep the dormitory in "tip-top" condition.

Residence Hall for Women

The ruling body of the residence hall: Row 1: Sylvia Brennan, Nancy Dangerfield, Mrs. Vanna Wood Hensley, housemother, Nancy Byard, Vicki Hager, Mary Lamp, Jackie Gleason, Sandra Davis, Mary Lynn Snyder. Row 2: Martha Fike, Kathern Davis, Joyce Frazier, Carol Morgan, Cassandra Kind, Andrea Burgess, Maurine Osburn, Karen Knotts, Terry Jacobs.

The newest dormitory is the modern Residence Hall for Women which opened in September. The six-story building is larger than other women's droms, and it offers everything to make life as comfortable as life at home. For those who don't like the idea of climbing six flights of stairs, there are elevators. At snack time, the girls avail themselves of kitchenettes. And when it's time to wash, it's only a few steps to the building's own laundry.

Coeds who live in the Residence Hall for Women have all the conveniences of home and then some. The girls are quite proud of their home away from home.

Hodges Hall

Hodges Hall is one of a pair, being architecturally designed to match Laidley. The two buildings, lying opposite each other, give a balance to the east end of the campus.

Hodges is the home of a large number of Marshall's athletes.

The Counselors of Hodges Hall are: Row 1: Bill Carper, David Truscott. Row 2: Bob Edmunds, Ken Cathell, John Land, Lowell Fogus.

These men comprise the ruling body of Hodges Hall: Larry Dezio, vice-president; David Groves, president; Steve Henry, treasurer.

Residence Hall for Men

This is the newest and largest men's dormitory on campus. Opened in 1961, it is composed of four stories. This modern housing unit provides comfortable rooms for students and is the only dormitory which contains a cafeteria.

Jim Reynolds, Dennis Hill, Jim Weatherford, Frank Maneris, and Charlie Krolides are the men who have the honors of ruling this dormitory.

The men living in the Residence Hall for Men take pride in the modern facilities, especially the cafeteria.

SPORTS

University life has many facets. One which often comes to the attention of the student is its sports program. From the brisk autumn days that bring the roaring stadium crowds, the excitement of a home run for our team, or to the competition of the intramural games, sports play an important role in the education of the Marshall student. He who participates directly as a player not only gains recognition, but tastes the discipline which any sport imposes upon its athletes and becomes a more balanced individual for the experience. The student body, actively supporting the game itself, contributes to the interest of the players themselves, while making good use of their leisure time and balancing the more academic aspects of the university. The sports curriculum also affords the community at large as an entertainment medium, and serves to bring the campus community closer to that outside.

Marshall University is a member of the Mid-American Conference and competes in all sports with other conference members, Bowling Green University, Kent State University, Miami University, Ohio University, Toledo University, and Western Michigan University. Marshall is also a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and conforms to its standards. Through the intramural program, Marshall promotes sports activities in other areas also. This is our athletic program.

Marshall 0 Miami 21

Snyder's Thundering Herd was handed their second defeat of the season by Miami University's star quarterback, Ernie Kellerman. Marshall's tight defense could not contain the running and passing of the Redskins, and the game ended with a 21-0 trouncing. Dropped passes and short ground gains, coupled with Miami's defense, were the key factors in Marshall's inability to score. As this was one of the toughest teams on the 1964 schedule, the loss was no disgrace . . . it only added incentive.

Marshall 0 Morehead 6

Marshall optimistically opened the 1964 season against Morehead State, only to leave Ashland, Kentucky, with their initial hopes shaken by a six-point loss to the Eagles. Although playing an outstanding defensive game, the Big Green could not get their offense in high gear. Quarterback Howie Miller was hampered in his passing by the hard-rushing Eagle line. Somewhat deflated, but still determined, the Thundering Herd returned to practice with Miami's conquest in mind for next week's game.

Marshall 13 Toledo 0

With 6:05 left in the first half, Marshall's Larry Coyer returned a Toledo punt 79 yards for a touchdown which was only the beginning of a 13-0 defeat for the Rockets. Sophomore Mike Jackson carried the ball six times in the third quarter paving the way for Dave Boston's score. Typically the Big Green was strong on defense; it won the game. Toledo's coach commented also on the depth of the Marshall team and prophesied plenty of wins ahead.

Marshall 14 Buffalo 12

Marshall evened its record at two and two by defeating the Buffalo Bulls 14-12. Two passing yardage records were broken by Quarterback Howie Miller and end Bob Pruett in a great passing attack. Aerials accounted for the touchdowns, both of which went to Pruett. The Big Green's rugged defense turned in another solid game and the offense sparkled. With each game Marshall steadily improves and chances for a second winning season in a row look good.

Marshall 27 Kentucky 6

Marshall lost one of its best defensive weapons when tackle Fred Anderson was lost for the season. However, the Big Green beat Kentucky State 27-6, bringing its win streak to three. Jack Mahone scored three touchdowns and was the real offensive work horse. The game was characterized by red flags and penalties, and was the roughest game up to this time. The extent of Anderson's loss will only be known next week and after, but to be sure, it will hurt some. Big Green optimism is high as the team prepares for next week's game against Louisville for Homecoming.

Marshall 28 Louisville 6

Four in a row with four to go! What a treat for Homecoming. The Big Green kept its winning streak alive by beating the Cardinals 28-6. Three Marshall players broke school records. Quarterback Howie Miller passed to a total yardage record, end Jim Cure caught his 100th pass, and halfback Jack Mahone, turning in his usual superlative game, broke the rushing record. Completely dominating the game, Marshall was outstanding on defense as well as offense. The Thundering Herd, having galloped over the Cardinals, is looking toward its fifth win next week.

Marshall 16 Western Michigan 7

Marshall made sure it was not going to have a losing season this year by winning their fifth game against Western Michigan. Jack Mahone set another record by running 29 times while Tom Good led the defensive unit in keeping the Broncos from scoring more than one touchdown. Larry Coyer kept the game out of the reach of Michigan by booting a fourth quarter, 42-yard field goal. Now, after five in a row, the Big Green faces Bowling Green, possibly the best team on the 1964 roster.

Marshall 0 Bowling Green 28

Marshall's winning streak was abruptly halted by a 28-point loss to Bowling Green. This victory assured the MAC crown for the Falcons. Although the game was close all the way, Big Green miscued and Bowling Green passing paved the way for Falcon touchdowns. The Thundering Herd's defensive unit looked good as usual, but was simply overpowered by the formidable Bowling Green offensive line. Marshall looks forward to clinching a winning season by defeating Kent State next week.

Marshall 12 Kent State 7

Etching out a 12-7 victory over Kent State, the Marshall team, spearheaded by Jack Mahone, clinched their ninth win in six starts, and the third in five MAC contests. The turning point came in the fourth quarter when Mahone scored two touchdowns, helped by the hard running of fullback Dave Boston and pass completions to Bob Pruett. The tough Big Green defense, goaded by the efforts of Winter, held off any further efforts to score by the Flashes as the clock ticked off the minutes in the senior's last home game.

Marshall 10 Ohio University 0

Marshall won a tie for the runner-up spot in the MAC by defeating Ohio University at Athens, 10-0. This win was the first ever for Marshall at the Bobcats' home field. The Thundering Herd came through in fine form as they ended the season with a 7-3 record, the best since 1947 when Coach Snyder was team captain. This year's edition of the Chief Justice congratulates the Big Green on its fine performance for this football season, 1964.

The Marshall cagers ended a rather disappointing 1965 basketball season as hosts to Bowling Green, Ohio. As the final minutes of this season came to a close, loyal fans had their hopes readied for a more successful season next year. The team played good ball throughout the season and deserve recognition and praise for their efforts and the extremely good-sportsmanship they exhibited.

ADMINISTRATION

An integral part of any university is its faculty and administrative personnel. They discipline and give purpose to what would otherwise be a mere conglomeration of would-be seekers of learning. Whatever their offering, we, the students, benefit immeasurably by contact with them, and come away enriched by the experience. To a freshman an understanding advisor can mean the difference between satisfactory adjustment to college and confusion as to his actual purpose in seeking higher education. There is not one among us that does not remember fondly a favorite professor who made learning an exciting challenge. Less apparent, but nevertheless vitally important, are those who keep the university running smoothly and see to it that the facilities grow dynamically with the ever increasing demand for academic production. We are grateful to all of these and need to realize even more our great debt to them.

Dr. Stewart H. Smith
President
Marshall University

From Our President . . .

"The days that make us happy make us wise," wrote England's Poet Laureate, John Masefield. At first this line seems startling, but upon further reflection it reveals a profound truth. What is it that makes us happy?

College days are happy days for they are spent in cultivating friendships, in gaining knowledge, in learning to see ourselves as we really are and in finding how to cope with the daily pressures the world imposes on us.

A happy person has learned to distinguish between the significant and the trivial, to help rather than to humiliate others and to encourage rather than to discourage. He has learned that the way to be happy is to make others happy.

The wisdom that happiness makes possible lies in the achievement of these and other positive ends. The pages of The Chief Justice are filled with the many and varied experiences of our students. Most of these experiences have brought a measure of happiness to the participants. To the degree that the student has achieved genuine happiness, to that extent he has gained in wisdom and understanding.

CLASSES

To keep pace with increasing demands by our society for greater knowledge, vast numbers of Americans are going to college. The modern student is a serious individual. His main purpose in entering the academic community is to obtain an education that will adequately prepare him for his chosen field. The hectic days of registration, filled with worry about classes closing and fulfilling graduation requirements, lead to the seemingly endless round of classes, exams, and papers due. This is the serious aspect of the student's life and the one where he expends most effort. Sometimes his studies seem routine and unexciting, but the knowledge gained about himself and his world offset the ordinary. When the hours spent in the library and the studying far into the night culminate on graduation day with the presentation of a diploma, it is worth it.

The end of anything is colored with a certain amount of regret. The good times may have come to a finish, or we part with friends, or perhaps we are left with the knowledge that we could have done a better job or handled a certain situation differently. When we come to the finish of another school year, or approach graduation, it is with mixed feelings. To some, it is with a resolution to do better next semester; others may be pleased to note the results of a term of hard studying. To still other students, factors other than studying enter into their relative sense of accomplishment, since college life includes more than mere academic pursuit. To those who are leaving the University to test the practical worth of the education they have so far attained, most of the regret is over-shadowed by anticipation of what is to come. The end of this year then, arouses different feelings, but for all of us, there is another step ahead, and we hope that it will be a good one.
